

September report

First, I just started university life with my major in Business Administration. I study 3 subjects in the first term such as Khmer Study, English 1, and environmental science. For Khmer Study, I learned about the history of the older Khmer people and the history of the old Temple. About Environmental science, I have learned how to do a professional presentation group. I can exchange ideas and meet new people and new friends. The last thing I learned about English 1 is writing and reading class. I really enjoyed all my classes with new teachers and new friends. One more thing, next month I will have an English class with TDSO NGO. I can't wait to study for the upcoming English class.

On the 20th I joined the cycling activities with all CRST members. We rode our bicycles to Angkor Wat. On the way, we had a fun conversation with our partner. We really like bicycles. We went for 3 to 4 hours around the temple. And we took the group photo together in front of Angkor Wat. Then we came back to the city. I also assist the sports team in taking the bicycle to the bicycle rental. I am happy to be involved in these activities because it makes me stressed out with study and work. I had a lot of pain in my arms and legs and I was sick too, but it was okay because I think we do not ride it often, so that why my body hurts. I really appreciate the well-organized way of making our students spend time together. Currently, I just got promoted to the sports and health team. I am excited to become a part of this department to look after our student's health.

On the 27th I attended the business class with Mr.Seyha he talked about Mind, Brain Work, and the 4 stages of learning. That is a very new topic for me and it was interesting. I learned with this class. I want to share with you what I remember: The best to predict the future is to create it. Finally, in the class, we took group photos together with Mr.Seyha. I really enjoyed this class. And really thankful to the Business class team for finding something new for us.
